

Acting 1

The Fundamentals of an HB technique: Here, you develop the ability to respond truthfully, dynamically, and vividly with fellow actors and the ability to access sensory elements. You tap into the power of imagination and the reservoir of memory. You gain a working understanding of the terms: previous circumstances, destination, inner and outer objects, intentions, obstacles, and conflicts. You develop an awareness of the power, function and dynamics of “place”, and learn to be in a state of discovery, which leads to actions. You develop tools of research and observation and you get comfortable improvising. You begin to measure yourself against professional standards and develop habits of discipline and a strong work ethic. Do understand that these practices take time to master. It takes about a year (20-30 weeks) at this level to really own the skills addressed. Further scene study or performance work will then take root in this fertile ground. PREREQUISITE: Open to all.

Acting 2

You continue developing the techniques from Acting 1, now applied toward scene work and the demands of crafting and scoring a role. You'll use Uta Hagen's object exercises to build habits of attention and unlock your rehearsal process. You'll apply improvisation to the exploration of character and circumstances, and develop an approach to preparation. Among the skills you'll practice: discerning beats, intentions, obstacles, and conflict; choosing actions; sensing the turning points in the text; substitution/personalization; endowment of sensory conditions; working with expectations and previous circumstances; finding immediacy in the give and take. PREREQUISITE: Open to actors placed at Acting Level 2 and up. New to HB? Audition for placement.

Acting for Teens: Ages 14-17

This class for teenagers builds on the basics of the “Game of Make Believe” introduced in Acting for Young People aged 9-13, starting from improvisations and moving into work on scenes. You will discover how to use yourself, your experiences and imagination to create a character in a play or story. Your belief and whole-hearted commitment to the circumstances of the play make it real for the audience. In an atmosphere of creative play and self-discovery, you will come to understand and experience the level of preparation and discipline you will need to try for a place in the professional theater. We'll also work on how to prepare for auditions and cold readings. PREREQUISITE: Open to all, ages 14-17.

Acting for Young People: Ages 9-13

When the actor believes, we believe. The child's natural instinct for play is the foundation of the actor's process. Using the game of make believe to get into the “shoes” of the character, we begin to play with the possibilities that game invites in us. In order to believe I am the character, I must begin to learn all I can about who “I” am in the role: what surrounds and affects me, what I know, where I have been and where I am going; what I want, and what I do to get it or to make it happen. We use improvisation to awaken and explore creative impulses. Theatre games and exercises expand imagination, awareness, concentration, expressivity, and help build skills of communication, cooperation, and collaboration. Through text work designed for the young performer, we make strong, specific, meaningful connection to the language and circumstances of the play, bringing the author's words to life. Through acting, young people gain compassionate insight about themselves and about the world around them; gain poise and confidence; develop problem-solving skills; and engage with peers and mentors in a joyful, collaborative process. PREREQUISITE: Open to all, ages 9-13

Acting with the Camera 1

This Level 1 acting class provides an introduction to the technique of living truthfully in front of the camera. You explore the fundamental elements of a grounded acting technique as they relate to the level of intimacy the camera demands. As you practice in front of the camera, you learn to stay open and work freely without hiding or acting for the lens. You develop the ability to listen and connect truthfully with a partner, letting that interaction guide your impulses. You discover the relevance of Uta Hagen's exercises for on camera work – building the 4th wall, creating place, connecting with sensory aspects of the environment – and begin to understand the level of preparation, specificity, and simplicity the camera demands. PREREQUISITE: Open to all.

Acting with the Camera 2

This advanced scene study track is geared to the particular circumstances of working with the camera on film or video, and assumes you are already well grounded in acting technique, text analysis, and contemporary scene work. The class will address the adjustment you must make to the intimacy and immediacy of film, so you become accustomed to doing your best detailed, honest, layered work under the watchful eye of the lens. You learn to manage the tough realities of the film or television job, developing strategies for applying your own technique to the demands of the set. We consider angles, lenses, distances, continuity, and your relationship to the composition of the scene. You learn to work more quickly and more intimately, and to prepare effectively for a performance situation in which there is little or no rehearsal and scenes often occur out of sequence. You learn to respect and understand the financial, technical, and time considerations that govern film production, and cultivate the absolute discipline required to meet them. PREREQUISITE: Open to actors placed at Acting Level 2 and up. New to HB? Audition for placement.

Acting with the Camera 3: Skill Integration for Film (advanced)

Open to current/prior students of Lisa Pelikan, this class is for the working actor with on-camera experience, seeking to stretch, renew and risk. Through the medium of film, practice the art of bringing it all together -- Integrate your voice, movement and acting technique to allow your detailed, layered, and most honest work to be open with the intimate eye of the camera lens. Find freedom and joy in the technical world of film. Lisa Pelikan brings her years of Film/TV/Internet acting experience together with certifications in Fitzmaurice Voicework® and Laban Movement Analysis to hold this course for fellow actors seeking deeper truth in the work, replenishment as artists, and full integration of themselves on film. Practice being in the moment with all your skills on board -- bring your breath, body, voice, and spacial awareness together in performance for the camera, the camera operator, and your fellow actors. Become familiar with the technical language; learn about both sides of the camera; study the work of master film actors; and support each other in taking risks and growing as artists. Will demand respect for the work and each other. We will incorporate self-taping as an integral component to this course. Actors will experience creating work through the practice of taping themselves using their phones, in class and at home. PREREQUISITE: This class is only open to "ongoing students" who have previously had 10 weeks of the "intro" class with Lisa Pelikan, and who are also placed at Acting Level 3. New Students are not permitted to enroll in this class.

Alexander Technique

The Alexander Technique is a gentle method through which you gradually learn to free yourself from unconscious physical habits that limit your ease, versatility, and freedom. This course will inquire into and enhance your "body map" – your conception of your body, as a whole and in specific areas. As you learn to release the downward pressure of your head to your spine, become clearer about your joints and how they work, and understand the unity of your body/mind and how it functions as a whole, you will gain access to an ever-increasing sensory awareness. Bringing conscious thought and awareness to daily life will allow you to change the habitual behavior that creates unneeded tension. Posture and self-use become conscious and volitional, not habitual and rigid. This translates to a greater possibility of fully embodying characters whose physical life is different from your own while maintaining healthy use of your body. Natural free use of the breath is addressed as a result of freeing the whole self, supporting your voice work. During each class you will have individual hands-on work as well as group activities. Recommended reading for Alexander Technique: BODY LEARNING by Michael Gelb PREREQUISITE: Open to ALL levels.

Playwriting: Race, Gender, Sexuality, Religion and Popular Culture

INSTRUCTOR: James Anthony Tyler - To be held online via Zoom: This course will focus on writing plays that explore the social constructions of race, gender, sexuality, religion, and popular culture. We will engage with films, novels and short stories, newspaper and magazine articles, popular music, television and digital media to spark discussions about both justice and injustices that shape our varied perspectives. The hope is that the conversations inspire our writing of 10 Min Plays to be workshopped in class. The goal is to write plays that honestly explore hard topics in ways that are truthful, but also have a balance of levity and seriousness that ultimately give our audience catharsis. James Anthony Tyler is the recipient of the 3rd Annual Horton Foote Playwriting Award, and was one of the inaugural playwrights to receive a commission from Audible's emerging playwrights fund. His plays include ARTNEY JACKSON (World Premiere at Williamstown Theatre Festival, 2018 Edgerton Foundation New Play Award) and SOME OLD BLACK MAN (Berkshire Playwrights Lab at St. James Place and 59E59 Theaters NYC). Current projects: ALL WE NEED IS US (Audio Play 35 min); HOP THA A (Audio Play 87 min, Ars Nova, The Drama League and Asolo Rep); and DOLPHINS AND SHARKS (LAByrinth Theater Company and the Finborough Theatre in London)...read more about James PREREQUISITE: Open to all

Scene Study 3

You apply advanced lessons in technique and text analysis to the preparation, rehearsal, and presentation of scenes from a range of contemporary and classic plays. The work may incorporate Modern (19th/early 20th century) and Classical texts, as well as heightened, non-linear, and experimental material. Scenes are presented in class for critique, then reworked to explore and apply feedback. Extensive research, preparation, and rehearsal are expected outside of class. Skills: understanding and realizing the event of the scene; layering conscious and unconscious behavior; applying technique as a tool to solve challenges outside your comfort zone; transformation of self. Through extensive examination, research, and experiment, you discover and rediscover the level of action and commitment needed to fulfill the form and idea of the play. Expected rehearsal time outside of class: 6+ hours / week. PREREQUISITE: Open to actors placed at Acting Level 3 and up. New to HB? Audition for placement.

Singing Voice 1

Singing and the ability to use the voice as an expressive instrument are an essential part of your skill set as an actor. Most actors will be called upon to sing at some point, regardless of whether your interests and talents run to musical theater. The study and practice of singing enhances your sense of musical form, pitch, rhythm, and language, and brings greater freedom, range and timbre to the speaking voice. Level 1 Singing is open to all – from total beginners to those who want to reinforce basic technique or strengthen your vocal instrument. The focus is on freeing, developing and strengthening the voice. Exercises emphasize relaxation and the most effective use of breath, an even use of the voice throughout the range, and awareness of how the entire body contributes to the production of sound. Level 1 will incorporate group and individual exercises, and work on songs of different genres. Accompanist provided. PREREQUISITE: Open to all.

Singing Voice 2

This Singing class is for you if you have some foundation in singing technique, having developed a connection of the voice to the breath, a practiced and heightened listening ability, a sense of phrasing and an ability to practice on your own. Class work will continue to develop singing technique and musicianship, with exercises to support the development of vocal control, flexibility and range. You will be asked to treat the song lyric as text not unlike that of a script, toward the goal of memorized presentation and interpretation of the song. Accompanist provided. PREREQUISITE: Open to those placed at Singing Level 2 and up. New to HB? Audition for placement.

Speaking Voice 1

This class employs the deconstructing and restructuring processes of Fitzmaurice Voicework® devised by Catherine Fitzmaurice. Training in voice work begins with the cultivation of deep physical awareness. Specific attention will be given to how the body—bones, muscles, breath, and nervous system – relates to healthy vocal production and vocal freedom. Examine how it feels to stand on your feet. Learn about how you live in your body, how you relate to your head and neck and shoulders. Discover how this affects your use of voice and influences healthy vocal spontaneity and expressiveness. Develop curiosity about these sensations and the circumstances and habits that affect them. Work through specific exercises to develop a Level 1 vocal and creative warm up sequence that will become your ongoing practice. Through your warm up become used to the process of checking in: recognizing and allowing the physical/emotional moment you are in and the circumstances that attend it, experiencing the moment, and working from it. Develop a relationship with the habitual patterns that influence how you engage with yourself—your skeletal and muscular structures, autonomic nervous system, your breath and your voice. Develop spontaneity, learning what it feels like to give in to a physical experience. With curiosity, explore and experience rigidity in the body through the release of tension, breathing, and spontaneous truthful sound. Learn the basic anatomy that supports breathing, sound making, and articulation in speech. Throughout Level 1 you are asked to discover your own process and be with others in theirs, so together the group develops a sense of what it means to be heard, seen and understood. Be advised that this Level requires time to master, and most actors will need a two- or three- term investment at Level 1 to develop awareness and become confident in these practices. All else in voice and speech work will build on this foundation. PREREQUISITE: Open to all levels.

Speaking Voice 2

This class employs the deconstructing and restructuring processes of Fitzmaurice Voicework® devised by Catherine Fitzmaurice. An ongoing practice class for performers who have gained an embodied understanding of the fundamental principles of Fitzmaurice Voicework addressed in Level 1, and are seeking to develop a personal practice, apply these practices more deeply, and explore applications to rehearsal and performance. This class functions as a workout, giving you the opportunity to build synthesis with the different aspects of your acting work, and also to address specific individual problems and challenges arising from your efforts in performance and rehearsal, further exploring skills and incorporating speech, text, and movement. Working from your growing visceral and kinesthetic bodily awareness, you will continue working through your vocal and creative warm up, taking greater ownership of your practice. You are guided to work with greater ease, spontaneity, and intention, and with a deeper sense of truth. You will work with imagery, directed sound, and movement to communicate with intention. You will examine how intention relates to release and to the support of your voice, as you bring your vocal work to the effort to communicate and the desire to be heard. Learn what intention includes vocally, in terms of inner life and moment-to-moment work. Discover greater resonance and vibrancy, as you become aware of the space around you and consider the need to be heard in any circumstance, with any piece of text. Deepen your release of the jaw and neck and the body overall. Incorporate the expressive powers of articulation, sound, and resonance. You are guided to develop your own vocal practice and challenged to keep venturing beyond your comfort zone. You will explore texts and circumstances with an ever more complex sense of the layering of language, sound, form, and meaning. Participants are encouraged to bring to class a specific play or text, or specific aspects of your work that require integration, that you are working on. This includes body-based needs such as vocal alignment, physical variations to a character's circumstances, and other needs that can be addressed through voice and movement work. You are encouraged to bring in all of your actor's background preparatory work such as: text analysis, objectives, and circumstances of the character and of the play over-all. You are also asked to bring in specific questions and observations, relating to healthy vocal and physical expressivity, that arise as you practice and work. PREREQUISITE: This course requires an audition for new students or faculty placement for continuing students. Open to students placed at Speaking Voice Level 2 and up. New to HB? Audition for placement.

Speech 1

Drawing upon Knight Thompson Speechwork, Level 1 Speech is designed to develop your awareness of the physiological components and physical actions of speech. You will learn speech anatomy, with exploration and play through the vocal tract. The class will make a careful study of all the possible consonant actions and experiment with oral postures. You will begin to explore an international range of possible speech sounds, developing the ability to perceive and experience shades of difference. These fundamental practices will be useful to both native and non-native American speakers. PREREQUISITE: Open to all.

Speech 2

Continuing with the foundation laid in Speech 1, you are introduced to the International Phonetic Alphabet (IPA), and over time (and in subsequent levels), will develop a deep, physical working knowledge of this system, which provides a basis for analyzing, practicing, and acquiring a gamut of different accents and patterns of speaking. Through practice, you will work to develop flexibility, muscularity, and specificity in producing speech sounds. The goal is to increase intelligibility as well as flexibility in handling the specific demands of any given language, text or scene. These fundamental practices will be useful to both native and non-native American speakers. PREREQUISITE: Open to actors placed at Speech Level 2 and up. New to HB? Audition for placement.

Speech 3

AMERICAN ACCENT ACQUISITION | SPECIAL TOPICS IN SPEECH: Continuing with the foundation laid in Speech 1 and Speech 2, you will develop and deepen your working knowledge of the International Phonetic Alphabet (IPA) as an essential and practical actor's tool in service to the clarity of communication. Expanding upon this knowledge, Speech 3 will offer you the skills necessary to acquire accents (both North American and others), and to meet specific speech demands of a variety of texts. In addition, the class will take on the study of a specific speaker, bringing that work into the body. The goal is to expand and deepen speech skills, acquiring greater specificity and articulation. Whether you are interested in acquiring a North American accent absent the markers of regional speech, understanding how to approach accent work, or adjusting speech choices depending upon context and physical space, this workshop will offer you the skills needed in every actor's tool kit. PART A: IDIOLECT - Speech 3 Part A will focus on Idiolects, which are the specific unique characteristics and features of an individual person's speech pattern. This study is useful for all speakers as it asks you to deepen listening skills, utilize IPA tools such as suprasegmental features, prosody, tone and accent, diacritics, vowel and consonant length, and more. You will choose one or more speakers (public personalities) you are interested in studying and embodying in order to deepen and expand your skill sets. PART B: SPECIAL TOPICS IN SPEECH - Playwrights and screenwriters frequently create contexts and given circumstances, that can challenge an actor's speech skills. For example, numerous plays feature instances of alcohol and substance use, which have a profound impact on motor skills, including of course, speech. Playwrights have written characters with specific speech differences such as childhood fluency speech disorder (formerly called, 'stuttering') as well as other speech differences. These specific speech changes are, in fact, predictable and can be studied and acquired, as one might an accent or dialect. There are plays in which a single character ages from childhood to age, and there are not only vocal changes, but speech changes which occur with age. Successfully embodying neurological events such as stroke, aphasia, lung disease (which affects not only voice, but speech), and progressive neurological conditions, requires both sensitivity and skill. In this five week workshop, you will explore the specifics of how those conditioning forces impact speech. You will deepen your listening and observational skills, and be introduced to the Extended IPA Chart. PREREQUISITE: Open to actors placed at Speech Level 3 and up. New to HB? Audition for placement.

Teatro Para Jóvenes Adolescentes de 13 a 17 años

Esta clase se impartirá online con el programa Zoom. Puedes registrarte para la Parte A o la Parte B de forma independiente (5 semanas cada una), o unirte a ambas partes por un período completo de 10 semanas. Asimismo, puedes unirte a la Parte B sin haber tomado la Parte A. DIRIGIDO POR MARIA FONTANALS –Conectarse con otra persona es uno de los grandes actos del ser humano. Esta clase de teatro, realizada en español, abrirá todo un mundo a los jóvenes adolescentes. A través del arte de la actuación, aprenderás lecciones de vida que te permitirán funcionar tanto en la vida real como en el mundo escénico. Aprenderás a trabajar en equipo, a establecer relaciones sólidas con otros estudiantes, a confiar en ti mismo y a descubrir tu propia voz. En esta clase, explorarás tu creatividad y desarrollarás la sensibilidad, la imaginación y la autonomía propia. Usaremos juegos de teatro e improvisaciones para despertar y explorar estos impulsos creativos. Los juegos y ejercicios teatrales ampliarán y amplificarán tu imaginación, conciencia, concentración, expresividad y te ayudarán a desarrollar habilidades de comunicación, cooperación y colaboración. Paralelamente, exploraremos el folclore, los mitos y las leyendas hispanas y, a través de estos textos, aprenderás a establecer conexiones sólidas, específicas y significativas con las circunstancias de la obra, dando vida a las palabras del autor. “La clase se fundamenta en el júbilo que todos experimentamos al actuar y vivir en un estado de conciencia y descubrimiento constante. Para mí, es fundamental el poder de un enfoque integrador para el crecimiento personal y desarrollo profesional. Disfruto trabajar con niños y adolescentes y acompañarlos en su camino personal mediante la actuación. Como española que habla no sólo español sino catalán, francés e inglés, he llegado a comprender el valor de una visión cosmopólita multilingüe y multicultural”. – Maria Fontanals, Instructora. IDIOMA: Español | THEATER FOR TEENS: Ages 13 to 17 . Held online via Zoom. PRESENTED BY: MARIA FONTANALS. Connecting with another person is one of the greatest aspects of being human. This theater and acting class, conducted in Spanish, will open the world to young people. Through the craft of acting, you will learn necessary life lessons which will allow you to function in real life as well as in the performing world. You will be taught how to work well with others, build strong relationships with other students, achieve self-confidence, and learn to think on your feet. You will explore your creativity, develop sensitivity, imagination and autonomy. We will use theater games and improvisation to awaken and explore these creative impulses. Theatre games and exercises will expand your imagination, awareness, concentration, expressivity, and will help you to build skills of communication, cooperation, and collaboration. We will explore Hispanic folklore, myths and legends, and through these texts, you will learn how to make strong, specific, meaningful connections to the language and circumstances of the play, bringing the author's words to life. “The class is guided by the joy we all experience when acting and living in discovery. I believe in the power of integrative approaches for personal and professional growth. I enjoy working with children and teenagers, and helping them grow through acting. As a fluent speaker of Spanish, Catalan, French and English, I have come to understand the value of multilingual and multicultural worldview.” – Maria Fontanals, Instructor. LANGUAGE: Spanish
